Term 3 - Week 10

Thursday 21 September 2017

What's on Tomorrow

End of Term Dance-A-Thon

GOLD COIN DONATION

Tomorrow we will be holding a whole school Dance-A-Thon to raise money for a local organisation called FoodShare.

FoodShare contributes all of the yummy food for our breakfast club and without their support our breakfast club would not be possible.

At 1.30pm students will dance around to different classrooms, learning a new dance in each room as they go.

This is also Footy Colours Day so come along in your footy colours .

Don't forget your gold coin donation!

Parents are welcome to come along and join in.

FOOTY COLOURS DAY SHOW YOUR TRUE COLOURS!

FRIDAY 22
SEPTEMBER

We are supporting Footy Colours Day so Come along dressed in your favourite footy colours.

CANTEEN FOOTY MEAL DEAL TOMORROW

2 x Slices Pizza + Drink $5.00

Extra Slice $1.50

Cupcakes with your favourite footy colours will also be available for $1.00 each over the counter

Last Day of Term is tomorrow 22 September

write AROUND the MURRAY Festival

By 5/6C

Here is what 5/6C took from the experience!

Bruce Pascoe, author of 'Dark Emu' taught us that in the next 2 to 3 years Australia will be eating the plant called yam. There are 3 parts to a yam, the young, the mother and the Grandmother. The mother and Grandmother you do not eat. They are put back into the ground to enable more to grow. You clean and eat the young. They will be a healthy vegetable of our future.

Keana B-W

Bruce told us about Aboriginal history. He told us that the Aboriginals were the first to create bread and society. He also told us about his book 'Dark Emu' which explains all this.

Rachael C

When we went to the Library, we learnt about a new plant that needs nothing to grow and about his new book 'Dark Emu'. I also learnt how to make people feel welcome in Australia.

Bronte W

We learnt about Australian History and lots more. A man called Bruce told us about special rocks with a special hole around it. We also learnt about how the Aboriginals made wheat in the desert and that they are bringing back special food, which will be ready for production in a few years.

Tex F

When we went to the Write Around the Murray Festival, a man named Bruce Pascoe taught us that Aboriginal people yielded fields from Melbourne to Adelaide and they were the inventors of bread & villages.

Ciara S-W

I learnt that the Aboriginals were the first to make bread. Everyone thought it was the Egyptians but it was really the Aboriginals. There is also a grain with lots of nutrients that doesn't need to be watered much & doesn't need pesticide and grows perfectly in our Australian climate.

Bruce Pascoe is of Bunrong, Yuin and Tasmanian heritage. His recent non-fiction book, Dark Emu, Black Seeds: agriculture or accident? Won the 2016 NSW Premier's Book of the Year. Bruce is currently working on a children's version of Dark Emu. It helps tell a different story to long held beliefs about Aboriginal hunter-gather societies. Bruce talked about Aboriginal agriculture, why we ignored it & how we can re-discover it. Bruce presented important revelations and

Pheobe G

I learnt that vegetables like potatoes are called yams and the Aboriginals had to dig 1 and a half metres to get to them. They are very healthy and will be sold in stores in a few years time.

Tahlia L

Aboriginals were the first to make bread. Also the Aboriginals helped Charles Sturt and other explorers and they even helped the horses.

Morgan R

I learnt that the Aboriginal people are
